Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

Charles Lamb tells of the discovery of roast pork. A Chinese accidentally set his house on fire, and inadvertently a pig that shared the house, was roasted. The Chinese poking around among the embers of his house by chance thrust a finger into the roasted carcass and thus stumbled on this great delicacy. Burning down houses to roast pigs, it would follow logically, should become a universal custom.

The fire in the Blue Tent section, which burned over a thousand acres, drove from the thickets a lioness and her two cubs, which were discovered and shortly afterwards killed by the state hunter. We shall probably hear again from those apologists for forest burning a la the aborigines, that forest fires do an immense amount of good. They drive the "varmints" into the open where they may be seen and shot.

It is this kind of logic that prevails too often. We are too prone as a people to arrive at a general conclusion from a particular instance. A job of providing relief that might have been assigned to an enlarged Red Cross organization with Federal assistance, has been made a national activity which for a time, at least, threatened to reduce all the people to a pauper level. During this time of chaotic spending which was intended to restore prosperity, but actually prolonged and intensified the depression, the arguments one heard favoring this prodigal spending frequently had to do with sons and daughters of wealthy men, who had wasted their substance in riotous living, while poor and honest people suffered for necessities.

The rich produce spendthrift children who waste their riches, therefore, we will deprive the rich man of his wealth by taxation and give it to the poor and deserving. Or, because one employer was greedy and oppressed his employes, we conclude all employers are of the oppressive breed. We will tax them all out of their capital, and lift to a higher standard of living the multitude of those who have not the strength, mental or physical, to achieve economic security. If any body doubt that this kind of reasoning prevails, take note of what candidates for office say next year, and note also the vote that each receives. The candidate who can recite the most harrowing "particular instances" of destitute old folks, and promises for these the most ..ham and eggs," will probably get the most votes.

The statement that 40,000,000 people, one third of the population of the United States, at any time in its history, is or has been, "ill housed, ill clothed and underfed," has never been backed by actual figures. It was intended to bolster an argument for lavish spending of tax funds in an expedient that really promotes national impoverishment. No question but that in a population of 125 millions some hundreds of thousands in 1930 were in distress, and some millions were fearful of destitution. But with all the activities of government intended to relieving distress, we have never yet seen any figures of the actual number in need. Fortunately next year we shall have a census and from that we can make deductions that should be of immense value.

While specious reasoning has led us into national economic quagmires, there are signs now that our feet are on firmer ground. The hysteria is passing, and the incidence of taxes, that always fail to hit the rich as heavily as they do the poor, is beginning to be universally felt. There is still the alarm of insecurity, but it is now being felt in the home owning and savings deposit stratum of our population. Congress, just adjourned, gave every manifestation before its dissolution, of having gotten a new religion. Whatever may be said of similarities in the phi losophy of government, held by Democrats of the Solid South and Republicans from Maine to California, one thing seems true. Farming interests throughout the country have returned to the conservative fold. The rebellion against Roosevelt policies was not greater in Congress than that expressed by the Calfornia legislature against the Olson program. Both rebellions are apparently based in the instinct of farmers and other property owners to resist further efforts to compel them to "share their wealth."

CHAMBER WILL STAGE PICNIC AND BARBECUE

By H. F. SOFGE
Secretary Chamber of Commerce

Did you have a good time at the dance given by the Nevada City Chamber Commerce several months ago? Of course you did.

Well, you are going to have the chance for another good time on Sunday, August 27, when the Chamber of Commerce will give a barbecue and entertainment at Skillman Flat on the Tahoe Ukiah highway, 14 miles east of Nevada City.

Besides a gate prize, there will be prizes for the ladies, children and even the men. There will be a husband calling contest in which the lady who, in the opinion of the judges, can out-call the other competitors, will receive a prize; also, there will be a rolling pin throwing contest to determine which of the fair sex is the most accurate in that form of social diversion; a three legged race for girls; a free for all race for both sexes, and many other events

Just to see what can be done in the way of catching greased pig, and climbing a greased pole, the Chamber of Commerce will give the pig to the one who is lucky enough to catch and hold it, and another cash prize for the successful one who can climb the greased pole.

The admission will be $1 per family. This admission will entitle those present to all the barbecued meat sandwiches and refreshments they wish. In other words, one buck will admit you to the grounds and to show you how well the Chamber of Commerce appreciates your patronage it will give you the eats and drink free. What a feed it will be. Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen has kindly consented to barbecue the meat—and no one can do it better.

Save this date for the grand picnic —you will have the time of your life. The date—Sunday, August 27. The place—Skillman Flat, east of Nevada City on the Tahoe Ukiah highway.

HYDRAULIC ASSN. WILL MEET IN AUBURN

The California Hydraulic Mining Association will have its next regular meeting in Auburn at the Freeman Hotel this coming Saturday evening. August 12 at 7:30 p. m.

At this important meeting will be discussed the various points of the actions brought against two mining operators who were operating above the North Fork dam on the American river together with other problems of the association.

SIERRA PARLOR N. D. G. W.

At a meeting Thursday evening of Sierra Parlor, N. D. G. W. in Alleghany, Deputy Esther McCluskey seated Edith Morris and May May, who were unable to be present at the recent installation. Mrs. L. L. Myers won the mystery box prepared by Lenore Kinkle. John Morris, of Forest won the door prize.

PLACER COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS IMPROVED

Visitors returning to the Placer County Fair at Roseville on August 25, 26 and 27 are going to be surprised at the great number of improvements that have been made in the grounds and facilities.

More lights, more seats, more exhibit space, more comfort for the animals on display, and pleasanter conditions for those who like to spend their time roaming around the grounds.

The agricultural and live stock exhibit space has been increased twenty per cent which will permit a much more attractive display than heretofore. Judge Ed Grey of Lincoln, in charge of the agricultural exhibits, in commenting on the improvements said today.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Epperson and small son of Bakersfield arrived Sunday to spend part of their vacation visiting Mrs. Epperson's mother, Mrs. Ida Guenther on Park avenue.

CHAMBER TO MEET TUESDAY EVENING

The Chamber of Commerce will meet tomorrow evening in the City Hall. President Gallagher announces that due to the summer season, it will be a short session beginning at 8 o'clock. Details of the projected barbecue and entertainment will be discussed. All members are cordially urged to attend and to take part in the arrangements for this big event.

WRAPS HIS CAR AROUND TREE

H. L. Bragg of Nevada City suffered cuts about his head at six o'clock last evening when his 1939 car left the road four and a half miles below Grass Valley on the Auburn Grass Valley highway. The car was so badly wrecked it was towed to a junk pile. Captain Joe Blake was called to investigate the accident. It is believe Bragg was going so fast up the Lady Jane ranch grade that the car left the highway, wrapping itself almost around a pine tree five feet from the road. Bragg was taken to Landis Clinic by passing motorists and several stiches taken in his head. He was able to leave the hospital soon afterward.

RECORD BROKEN BY UTILITY TAX TOTAL IN CALIF.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 7.—A record breaking value of $1,021,041,730 was given public utility property and inter-county pipe lines in an assessment announced today by the State Board of Equalization.

In making the announcement, Richard E. Collins, board chairman, pointed out that it was the fourth such annual assessment made by the board. Taxpayers are required to present any petitions for reassessment before August 21 when the roll will be adopted in its final form.

The total value included an assessment of $950,488,120 placed on tangible property all of which is subject to local taxation. Ths total represents a substantial increase over the value of $939,102,190 given comparable property in 1938.

Other items listed in the report include intangible property amounting to $58,050,130 and $11,488,900 as the assessed value of private cars which are subject only to state taxation.

In Nevada county the 1939 utility values include tangible property, $7,648,940, as compared with the 1938 totals of tangible property, $7,758,950.

Gas and electric companies led the list with a total assessed valuation of $551,621,450 as compared with $535,191,160 the previous year. Other classifications included railroads, 1939, $256,564,510; 1938, $248,582,470. Telephone and telegraph companies, 1039, $172,577,670; 1939 $166,139,440.

"There have been no great changes in the value of property previously assessed, but there has been a healthy growth by new construction of property by the major gas, electric and telephone companies which almost entirely accounts for the $11,056,805 increase in assessed value of tangible property as compared with last year," Collins said.

Indicative of the amount of work necessary to prepare the assessment roll, A. G. Mott, director of the board's valuation division, pointed out that among the many items assessed, it was necessary to appraise the following:

Twenty seven thousand parcels of land, 1,500,000 electric power poles, 250,000 miles of electric power lines, 20,000 miles of gas distribution mains, 1,200,000 telephone and telegraph poles, 7,700,000 miles of telephone and telegraph lines, 1,700,000 telephone stations and 15,700 miles of railroad track. The following classification by groups of taxpayers included the following.

Class of property
Gas and electric companies	$551,621,450
Telephone and telegraph	172,577,670
Inter-County pipe lines, etc. companies	23,702,830
Car companies (property at fixed locations)	3,099,380
Express companies	972,410
Railroad companies	256,564,510
Total—Property subject to local taxation	1,008,538,250
Vessels—Subject to state taxation only	1,014,580
Car companies —"Private cars" Subject to state taxation only	11,488,900
State total—Property assessed by State Board of Equalization	$1,021,041,73

STATE HUNTER BAGS 3 LIONS

Charles Ledshaw, state preditory animal hunter, yesterday morning shot a lioness and two female cubs, that were feeding on a three point buck the mother had killed. The three were killed in the vicinity of lone grave on the Tahoe Ukiah highway.

The lioness and cubs were driven out of the Blue Tent region ahead and were seen Saturday by Herb Skhehan who phoned to Ledshaw. The hunter brought his dogs up here Saturday and trailed the lions over several miles, but finally it developed that they had retreated again in the burned area from which they had been driven. Yesterday, however, when the hunt was resumed the three were found feeding on the buck.

A large crowd gathered in Broad street yesterday noon to view the unusually large bag of lions.

Charles Ledshaw's partner, Robert Jayne, assisted him in his hunt for the lioness and kittens. This is Ledshaw's twelfth year of this work. He has killed over 250 lions. He worked over the entire state until in the last two years and now hunts in the territory from Tuolumne to Sierra county.

"JOY OF EATS" WILL BE ROTARY TOPIC THURSDAY

Nevada City Rotarians will probably look forward to the luncheon part of their future meetings with more eagerness after their next Thursday meeting in the National Hotel when Paul O. Sampson of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, eminent dietician and lecturer addresses them on "The Joy of Eats." While Rotarians do not live to eat, in President Clyde Gwin's opinion, good food and the happy faculty of enjoying it go a long way toward making the world look brighter and promoting fellowship in any gathering. Since this happy faculty and the attitude toward food is largely psychological, it is expected that after Mr. Sampson's lecture the tempting viands of the National Hotel will be attacked with more gusto. Rotary Anns should notice an appreciable increase in the number of compliments and less fault-finding on the part of the so-called head of the family at meal time. The only worry is on the part of Rotarian Dick Worth, proprietor of the National Hotel, who is afraid that the consumption of food will reach the stage where he would rather sub-let the providing of meals for his fellow Rotarians than provide the groceries.

CITY BUILDING GARAGE AND WAREHOUSE

The walls and first floor of the new city garage and warehouse have been completed. The new building is in the rear of the City Hall and considerable excavating was done for it. The second floor will be steel girders and corrugated iron over cement. Max Solaro, fire truck driver, has been in charge of the work and done a large portion of it himself. The construction will cost the city but little. It will be convenient to house street working equipment and cars which are often stored elsewhere.

Peter Orzalli, clerk in the Bank of America at Auburn, spent the week end at his home on Grove street in this city.

Mrs. Kate Schmidt came up from Alameda to visit friends. She is the sister of Bert Davidson at North Bloomfield and Louie Davidson of Park avenue.

Forest Fires Reduce Timber Revenue and Cut Employment

Yesterday was a bad day for fires throughout the Nevada county district. Three fires flared up almost simultaneously, one in the Columbia Hill section, another near Camptonville and another between Remington Hill and Sardine Springs.

The Tahoe National Forest fire fighting forces are kept ready for any emergency and in each case suppression was accomplished in a very short time. The Remington Hill-Sardine Springs fire covered a half acre before being brought under control. The Camptonville-Pittsburg mine section blaze also covered a half acre. The Columbia Hill fire which was in State Ranger W. F. Sharpe's territory covered about 40 acres and for a time promised to be as destructive as the fire that started in the Blue Tent region Thursday and ravaved 800 acres of brush and timber.

All of these fires are being investigated as all are considered man-caused blazes. The Columbia Hill fire was set in at least three places according to discoveries made after the fire was extinguished.

Supervisor DeWitt Nelson of the Tahoe National Forest states that he has no intention of hiring outside labor to fight these fires. He has a full crew. Hs has given instructions to his rangers to hire no one. Mr. Nelson also warns that this is the driest season in years, the whole forest areas being as dry as tinder and people must be more careful of fire.

"This district contains the best growing timber belt in California.' stated Mr. Nelson. "It has already produced a second growth of tmber that now produces mine timbers and small logs for lumber. In the early days the district was logged off for lumber and mine timber. Stumps of immense logs are found throughout the whole regon."

Supervisor Nelson stated the 800 acre fire which started in the Blue Tent section Thursday was evidently a man-caused fire. On the Jake Zanocco tract and nearby properties there was a fine stand of 60 year old pine which was producing some saw logs for the mll, and mine timber. Due to the dry condition there is not a live tree left, in the whole fire zone. The leaves are burned off the pines and they are left standing blackened dry sticks. This stand of timber was producing a revenue for its owners and would have continued to do so for years to come. Fully 100,000 feet of mine timbers and much cord wood were destroyed on the 800 acres. All that will grow for some time in this section will be brush. Ten men employed cutting poles and wood in this area are now out of work.

DEATH SUMMONS LLOYD JENNINGS

Lloyd Worthington Jennings, aged 70 years and a native of Nevada City passed away yesterday afternoon at the family home on Sacramento street. When a young child his parents moved to the Banner district to reside. He went to work at Quaker Hill for the old South Yuba company, at Quaker Hill, moving to Nevada City to reside about 30 years ago. For a time he operated a bakery. subsequently he was employed by the city in handling the water division. Later he was appointed chief of police to succeed H. Shearer, killed in an accident.

Seven years ago he suffered a severe illness and had to give up his work. Two weeks ago he suffered a paralytic stroke and with a heart ailment was unable to rally.

Loved and esteemed by everyone, his life has been filled with kind deeds to his fellow citizens. He was a member of Nevada Lodge of Masons, Evangeline Chapter, O. E. S., Oustomah Lodge of Odd Fellows, and Neva Rebekah lodge, having passed through the chairs of each order.

Left to mourn his passing are a devoted wife, Alice Jennings; grand nephew, Daniel Deeble of Los Angeles and a number of cousins in the east.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Holmes Funeral Home chapel on Sacramento street. The Nevada Lodge of Masons will conduct the service. Holmes Funeral Home has charge of funeral arrangements. Interment will be made beside his parents in the Grass Valley cemetery.

STEEL BRIDGE FOR WILLOW CREEK

CAMPTONVILLE, Aug. 7.—Yuba County Supervisor Chas. E. Coupe has a crew engaged in constructing a steel bridge over Willow Creek on the Pendola-Mill Creek road, Lee Bullington being in charge of the construction. There is much heavy traffic over this road and while the present wooden bridge has never given any trouble, it is old and would soon have to be replaced and a steel bridge at this point will be a great improvement and safety measure. The bridge which is being put up is one which was on the Tahoe Ukiah highway near Hammond Grove, over Dry Creek.

Bill Hallett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hallett of this city, is enjoying a visit with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eilerman at Woodside. He is Treasure Island and is h... ...e time.

A fire dive and other special exhibitions will be presented. A dance will be held in Seaman's lodge after the carnival is over.

The final week of Red Cross school opened at the Municipal Swimming pool this morning. The first half of the various courses in the life saving and swimming classes has been completed. Over 100 children and adults are taking the course. C. E. Turner, Red Cross instructor, stated attendance is better than anticipated in a first year school. Communists Back Ham and Eggs

Little noted in the torrent of sensational testimony that poured from the lips of Harry Bridges as he took the stand at his deportation hearing was the significant admission that William Schneiderman, secretary of the Communist Party, had solicited his (Bridges') support of the Ham and Eggs pension plan at the forthcoming special election. The Communist Party endorsement of the pension act, incidentally, sets forth that the plan can't operate successfully—but should be supported by all 'liberals" as a blow at employers and "capitalists"!

"Poison The Boss!"

Vehemently denying communistic affiliations and warily parrying questions that might brand him as such, Harry Bridges let his venom get away with him last week when he suddenly shouted from the witness stand: "The only way to get rid of employers is to poison them!"

Then, Mr. Bridges declared that the hated employers could not, of course, be eliminated "under Democratic government;" that he believes it could be done under Communism.

Odd.

M. Stalin hates Democracy and upholds Communism and under Communism employers are readily eliminated. M. Stalin having the power, shoots employers. Mr. Bridges lacking the power, apparently would poison them if he could.

But Mr. Bridges says he isn't a Communist. It seems that there must be a subtle distinction between shooting a man and poisoning him!—Contributed.

Model-T Philosophy

As sturdy, homely and substantial as the old Model-T flivver of yesteryear is the philosophy with which Henry Ford begins his 77th year.

"Our national fault," he declared on his birthday, "has been too great a hurry to do something quick. It might be worth while to think again of where we started from in the first place. We began with the land."

There is more substance in that laconic statement than in many a thick tome on economic complexities. The current depression, as well as the old time prosperity, "began with the land." As 6,500,000 farm families know, the depression struck agriculture long before black 1929 the aritficial post-war boom in prices, costs and wages in the great industrial centers make it impossible for the farmer, large or small, to exchange his goods and services for city-produced goods and services, and avoid bankruptcy. With agriculture the basic industry, prostrate, it was only a matter of time until the entire commercial and industrial structure collapsed. And in a broad sense, general recovery is held back today by the anemia affecting agriculture.

Evidence is mountain high that America has been in "too great a hurry to do something quick. Visionaries dream and experiment and tax and spend — and our public debts soar ominously, with nothing permanently solved. Regulatory measures are haphazard and hampering. The plight of our second basic industry, transportation, is chaotic nationally because some carriers, such as the bankrupt railroads, are rigidly ruled by red tape while some others are regulated differently or not at all. And all business hesitates to expand because no management knows when nor where a new tax blow or debt-scheme avalanche will fall next.

Henry Ford's statement may bring smiles from technical "experts" of the "new" economics, just as his old Model-T flivver created a million Ford jokes. But its downright horse sense is apparent. The vast automotive industry stems from that first practical cheap car. And from Henry Ford's simple philosophy some day may come the long-postponed real recovery.—Contributed.

SEVEN AGES OF PERIL FOR MAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Analysis of the 12,500 pedestrian fatalities and 275,000 pedestrian injuries caused by automobiles in 1938 brings out a counterpart of Shakespeare's "Seven Ages of Man," according to a report issued today by the Lumberman's Mutual Casualty Company of Chicago.

There are "four ages of pedestrians." Each has its typical dangers.

First is childhood, intent on play, inattentive to passing vehicles. Children accounted for 2,250 of the pedestrian fatalities.

Second, youth, inclined to "show off" and take chances. More than 750 young persons between the ages of 15 and 24 died on the streets last year.

Third, middle age, concentrating on affairs, sometimes forgetful of hazards. Because there are more people in this age group it accounts for the largest number of those on foot who were killed by automobiles—5,950.

Fourth, old age, with diminished sight and hearing, with slower motions and reactions. In the group over 64 years of age there were 3,550 pedestrian fatalities during 1938.

Per 100,000 of our population in each age group, 7 children, 4 youths, 9 middle aged persons and 21 elderly people were killed.

Crossing the street against the light at intersections, inattention and crossing the street between intersections, particularly from behind parked cars, are the great mistakes for which thousands of pedestrians pay with their lives.

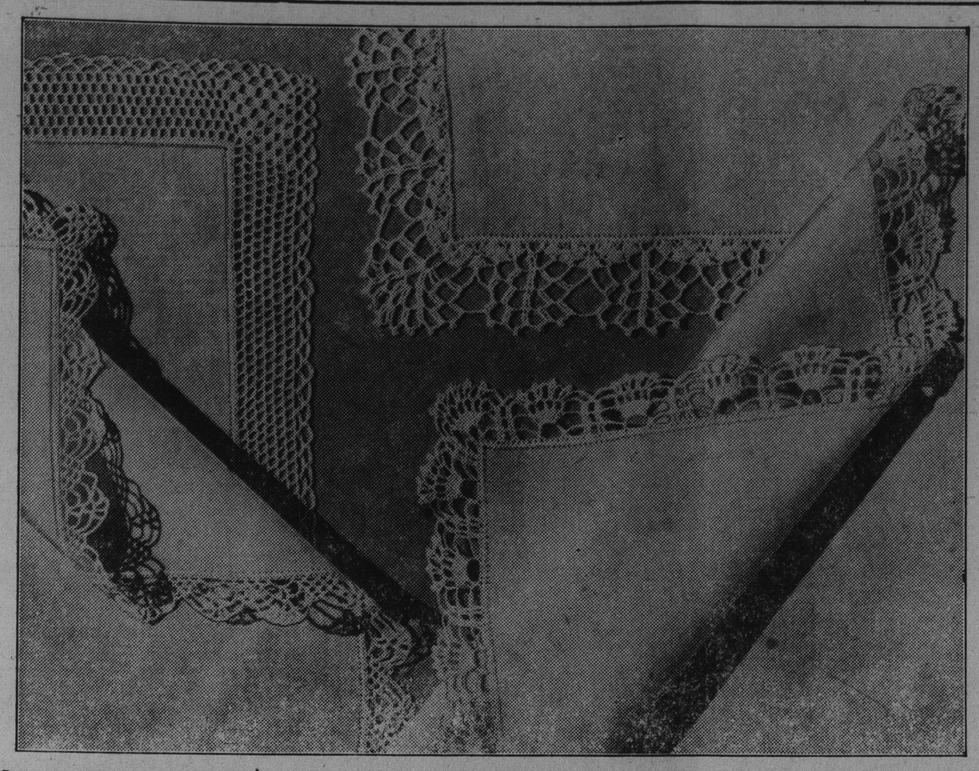
Fine Handkerchiefs Lovely With Crocheted Edgings



NOTHING is lovelier than a fine linen handkerchief, trimmed with a delicate edging of lace. Here are four different types of hanky edgings you can make yourself, each dainty and fastidious. All of them are easy to crochet, and could be entered in the Third National Crochet Contest this fall. Mercerized crochet cotton in sizes 50 to 100, should be used for the best effects. Directions for crocheting these edgings, and details of The National Crochet Contest may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The National Crochet Bureau, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Specify edgings No. 8371.

TWO MILLIONS, IMPROVEMENTS FOR STATE FAIR

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 7.—California's State Fair will present a $7,500 000 institution at its 85th annual renewal September 1 through the 10th.

Nearly $2,000,000, mostly supplied by the Federal government, has gone into improvements in the last two years. Since the fair closed last September, $700,000 has been spent, a large portion of it to provide show quarters for young exhibitors of the state.

The fair, itself, is in first place in the nation insofar as attendance is concerned and Secretary-Manager Robert Muckler points out that the 12 new buildings now under construction for 4-H Clubs and the Future Farmers of America will give it the largest youth division in the country.

Three hundred Works Project Administration and state architect division employees are at work on the provements.

The twelve new buildings will be divided equally between the two youth groups. Each will have an administration building 64 by 160 feet and 28 feet high. A domed roof of a new type eliminates pillars or posts on the floor. An arcade 185 feet long connects the two buildings.

Each organization will have five other buildings of equal size. They are: swine building, 80 by 146 feet; sheep, 80 by 146 feet; cattle, 80 by 248 weet; judging 80 by 72 feet, and poultry 80 by 96 feet.

"BRIDAL SUITE" UPROARIOUS FILM COMEDY COMING

Affording a happy variation from the more serious problems of life, "Bridal Suite" will come to the screen of the Nevada Theatre tomorrow night.

The heart beats in the picture are Annabella and Robert Young, teamed for the first time. Chief supporting funmakers are Walter Connolly, Reginald Owen, Gene Lockhart. Arthur Treacher and Billie Burke.

In the story Robert Young is rushed off to Switzerland by his fluttery mother, Billie Burke, to be cured of forgetfulness so that he may in future remember such trifles as wedding date. But while being treated for his head by Connolly, he loses his heart to Annabella manageress of the Swiss inn. The result is a series of daffy complications whirling from breath taking adventure in the Alpine heights to free for all fights aboard a trans-Atlantic liner, with true love winning in the end.

With Annabella and Robert Young in their best romantic comedy form the picture romps to its sidesplitting climax with such additional players as Virginia Field and Felix Bressart. The picture has been spiritedly directed by William Thiele.

U. C. WILL GIVE COURSE IN SEX AND FAMILY LIFE

BERKELEY, Aug. 7.—In conformity with a general request of the student body on the Berkeley campus of the University of California, the University is to institute a course in family relations in the fall semester of 1939. The course will be under the general direction of the administrative committee on Student Health and Welfare and will give special attention "to the fact of sex and the institution of the family."

The course will consist of 16 weekly lectures in the auditorium of Wheeler Hall and will be open only to registered students of the University. It will be headed by Dr. Chauncey D. Leake, professor of pharmacology in the University's medical school in San Francisco, and Dr. Noel Keys, professor of educational psychology on the Berkeley campus. Later it is probable that other educators will be added to the teaching list.

It is proposed to make the course a non-credit one for the first year. Also it will be independent of any present University department.

Dr. Leake, widely known pharmacologist, has stressed family relations and family histories in his courses at the medical school. As a result of this interest he has been named the president of the Family Relations Center in San Francisco. Dr. Keys. a former Rhodes Scholar, has worked and studied in ten countries in Europe, Asia. Africa and America. He holds degrees from Oxford, Chicago and Columbia universities.

In instituting the course. the University is moving in accordance with a more or less general patterns of family buildin agnd sex education covering the country. A number of other universities now have such courses. some of them giving from two to five credits for the work.

The lecture topics will include orientation, evaluation of the family, sex and mental health, anatomy of sex, phsiology of sex. personal sex hygiene, pathology of sex, psychology of sex, sex differences mental and temperamental, courtship and selection of a mate, psychological factors in family life, social problems in family life and a summary. The purely medical aspects of the course will be under the charge of Dr. Leake, while Dr. Keys will concentrate on the psyscological phases.

The course as the students themselves desired, will include a discussion of family relations on the highest possible plane, based on physical and mental health as well as compatability of temperament.

CAMPTONVILLE, Aug. 7.—Lee N.
